The Paradox of Today:

- Today we have higher buildings and wider highways, but shorter tempers and narrower points of view.
- We have bigger houses, but smaller families.
- We spend more but enjoy less; we have more medicines but less health; we have much more food, but less nutrition.
- We have multiplied our possessions but reduced our values. We have finer houses, but more broken homes.
- We reached the Moon and came back, but we find it troublesome to cross our own street and meet our neighbors.
- We have increased our possessions, but we have reduced our values
- Many have higher incomes, but lower morals.
- We have more quantity, but are short on quality,
- We have learned to make a living, but not how to live.
- We have added years to life, but not life to years.
- Many have more leisure, but less good fun.
- We can travel long distances, but have trouble crossing the streets!
- People spend their younger days losing health to get wealth and they spend their older days losing wealth to gain health!
- They live as if they will never die and die as if they had never lived.
- A rich person is not one who has the most, but one who needs the least
- But if you have GOD in your life, food on your table, a roof over your head, clothes on your back, reasonable income and, love and faith in your heart... Be happy and glad. For anything else that life can offer is nothing more than La-La.
